

REMARKS/ARGUMENTS

I. Status of the Claims

Claims 2-7 have been canceled. Claims 1 and 9-15 remain pending. Claim 1 has been amended to recite that the sensory regimen does not include the administration of an anti-acne composition. Support can be found in the specification at least in Example 3.

II. Specification

The Examiner has objected to the disclosure because it contains an embedded hyperlink. Applicants have deleted the embedded hyperlink by this amendment. Accordingly, the objection should be withdrawn.

III. Claim Rejections – 35 U.S.C. § 103

In the Final Office Action, the Examiner rejected claims 1-7 and 9-15 as allegedly unpatentable over U.S. Patent No. 5,466,446 (“Stiefel et al.”) or U.S. 4,545,977 (“Gaul”) in view of U.S. Patent No. 5,304,112 (“Mrklas et al.”). Applicants respectfully traverse this rejection.

None of the references cited by the Examiner teach or suggest Applicants claimed method for reducing the number and severity of acne lesions on the skin of a mammal comprising the step of administering a sensory regimen in an amount effective to downregulate the activity of the HPA axis of said mammal wherein the regimen is free of the administration of an anti-acne composition. Applicants have demonstrated in Example 3, Tables 6-9, that the sensory regimen by itself showed broad emotional and well-being benefits. The use of a sensory regimen to reduce the number and severity of acne lesions on the skin of a mammal is neither taught nor suggested by the prior art relied upon by the Examiner. Accordingly, Applicants respectfully submit that none of the references cited by the Examiner, taken alone or in any combination, teach or suggest Applicants claimed invention and the rejection should be withdrawn.
